To achieve transparency in administration The Right to Information Act, 2005 was enacted. It is necessary for the citizens to know as to how and why a particular decision is taken and for that purpose to seek information before making or drawing any conclusion. The purpose of this Act is to bring in transparency in administration and to bring about transformation in administrative machinery making it more open and free. It defines the term 'information' and prescribes that it is in any material, in any form, as records, documents, memos, e-mails, advices and opinions in recorded form, press releases, circulars, orders, log books, contracts, reports, papers and other things as provided.
